

Hind Al Huwaidi

Chief Executive Development Officer BEEAH

As a member of BEEAH's leadership team, Hind Al Huwaidi has consistently excelled in various positions within the organisation, creating long-term impact and adding value to the workforce. In her current role as Chief Executive Development Officer, Hind serves as an integral member within BEEAH's Executive Office, directly working with the Group CEO and Vice Chairman Khaled Al Huraimel, to advise and help drive the organisation's overarching goals and objectives.

Her responsibilities include overseeing the design and implementation of comprehensive executive leadership development initiatives to champion a culture of continuous learning and professional growth within BEEAH. In particular, she focusses on the development of national talent in line with the UAE's agenda, creating an environment for Emiratis to gain new skillsets and explore career paths within BEEAH across diverse roles. She already has considerable experience in this area having developed the BEEAH Future Leadership training program, preparing the organisation's next generation of leaders to leverage technology for business scenarios, develop future-ready strategies, and cultivate talent through mentorship.

Beyond her role in executive development, Hind also leads the BEEAH Ambassador program, an initiative for talented employees to represent the organisation to wider audiences externally. With a deep passion for philanthropy, Hind is also driving corporate social responsibility initiatives within BEEAH.

Hind continues to leverage her strengths in raising environmental awareness and leading positive change through learning. Previously, as Chief Education Officer, Hind led the development of various programs and initiatives focused on raising awareness and inculcating principles of sustainability, from grassroots level among students in schools and community members to professionals in large corporations. Under her leadership, BEEAH reaches thousands of students and teachers across hundreds of schools across the UAE. She conceptualised and developed the Future Pioneers Award, which recognises individuals, groups and organisations for their efforts in championing sustainability.

Hind also spearheaded the strategy for the Institute of Environmental Management and Sustainability–Middle East (IEMS), a venture dedicated to professional and vocational courses in sustainability.

Hind holds a Bachelor of Science in Environmental Health from the University of Sharjah, UAE. She also graduated from the illustrious Sharjah Leadership Program in 2017.